The Office of Admissions will extend interview invitations to qualified candidates for admission.

1. Be on time: It is always a good idea to be a little early. (10-15 min.)

2. Dress professionally: It is better to err on the conservative side. This means no jeans, shorts, tank tops, or sneakers. First impressions do matter, and you want to make sure yours is favorable. The Admissions Committee takes your professionalism into account as a part of the interview process.

3. Attitude: You will most likely be nervous, but you need to try to relax and be yourself. Be friendly, and be enthusiastic about the program and the profession.

4. Knowledge: Learn a little about the College before coming to the interview. Even if this is your first campus experience; study the website or review admissions materials you have about the program. The Admissions Committee will want to know why you are applying to the college, and your specific interest in the Physical Therapist Assistant profession.

5. Questions: Questions asked will be more behavioral in nature. This assists the Admissions Committee to get a better picture of the type of person you are. Take your time with the answers. The Admissions Committee is using the questions as prompts so you will share information about yourself. The more useful information you can reveal the better. Be sure to explain your answers.

6. Be prepared to ask questions: This is your opportunity to get specific questions answered. How does the NMC program compare to others in the area, etc.

7. Don't be afraid to brag a bit: When you are asked “is there anything else that you want us to know about yourself?” make sure you share with the Admissions Committee about anything else that you think is important about you.
